Daylight Saving—We'll Give It a Trial

With Mayor Albert Graves' proclamation Friday, Daylight Saving Time will go into effect in all civilian Hope at 9 o'clock Sunday night. Which simply means, you will set up your clock one hour before going to bed Sunday night. And that's all it means.

Beginning Monday morning the official time all over Hope—both at the Southwestern Proving Ground offices and among civilian business—will be an hour earlier than usual. And since this means simply following the new "fast" clock, you will go to work at the same hour, and quit at the same time, that you always have. But since the clock will be an hour fast, there will be an extra hour of daylight after the day's work is done.

There is no confusion about Daylight Saving Time for those who have actually tried it, in other cities. This writer has lived under it, as have other local citizens at various times; and probably a great many of the newcomers here have experienced it in the larger cities.

Time will be out of joint on only these things: Railroads and busses. The transportation system of America adheres to Standard time always. On the other hand, your radio programs for the most part operate on Daylight Saving Time during the summer—so you will be right in step with them.

So don't forget, this coming Sunday night—turn up that clock one hour before you yourself turn in!

U. S. Interest in Peace Proposals

Have the salt ready. There are going to be a good many peace proposals floating about, some advanced in good faith, some less disinterested. Each will need a pinch of salt.

The United States is properly interested in these proposals. Some of the most violent of isolationists are actively interested in them. Even profound disinterest in the war does not preclude eager interest in the peace. The United States is not in the war, and has not the slightest right to dictate to either side what peace measures it might advance or accept. But the United States is in the world and it is affected (as every one of us knows now) by whether Europe and Asia keep the peace.

The reason for the salt is this: The just and workable peace that is the only kind worth making is scarcely within sight at a time when one side in a war holds all the chips. The big winner in a poker game is usually willing to call quits when the stack of blues in front of him rises fearfully. But the other fellow insists on playing on, hoping for a change of luck.

As Woodrow Wilson said, "Only a peace between equals can last." Until both sides in this or any war see themselves as equal in power or potential power, there is no "negotiated" peace; there is only a peace of compulsion, recognizing ill-gotten gains, frustrating legitimate objectives.

A peace, for instance, "legitimizing" the conquest of small people by aggressive warfare, is no peace. A peace leaving Europe or Asia in a precarious balance between vast militaristic forces ready to spring at one another whenever the chance looks good is no peace. A peace which assents to any nation or system using the rest of the world as a mere spawning place for its propaganda and intrigue is no peace. A peace which denies access to the world's raw materials on equal terms to all is no peace. A peace without an organized means whereby all can restrain those who would break it is no peace. It is just such pinches of salt that must be taken with every peace proposal that may be advanced.

It would be a moral crime against mankind for people of any country to refuse to consider honestly and hopelessly weigh every proposal looking to the war's end; but peace proposals are often gift horses requiring the most minute oral inspection.

Cemetery Work to Be Paid for

Senator Spencer Says Removal at Government Expense

With the question as to who will pay for the removal of private cemeteries from the Southwestern Proving Ground reservation still unsettled as far as local offices are concerned, U. S. Senator Lloyd Spencer in a telegram to The Star Friday morning from Washington stated flatly that government funds would pay for the removal of all cemeteries, where public or private.

The senator's telegram follows: "I have had several conversations with the War Department in regard to the removal of cemeteries. They agreed several days ago that all would be moved at government expense and that this would be definitely announced by the proper authorities in Hope. "I supposed this had been done, but this morning I am in receipt of a petition sent by air-mail from interested people protesting government action in not removing. "If this matter has not been settled I authorize you to quote me as stating that the War Department here again this morning definitely assured me that the government would remove all cemeteries, whether public or private, from the Proving Ground area at government expense. Negro to Face Murder Charge

Surrenders to Sheriff After Hiding Since Tuesday

Worthy Joe Whitmore, negro, who is alleged to have shot and killed his wife last Tuesday afternoon near Clow, gave himself up to the Hempstead county sheriff Thursday night. Immediately after the shooting, which was witnessed by a daughter, Whitmore fled and police had been searching for him.

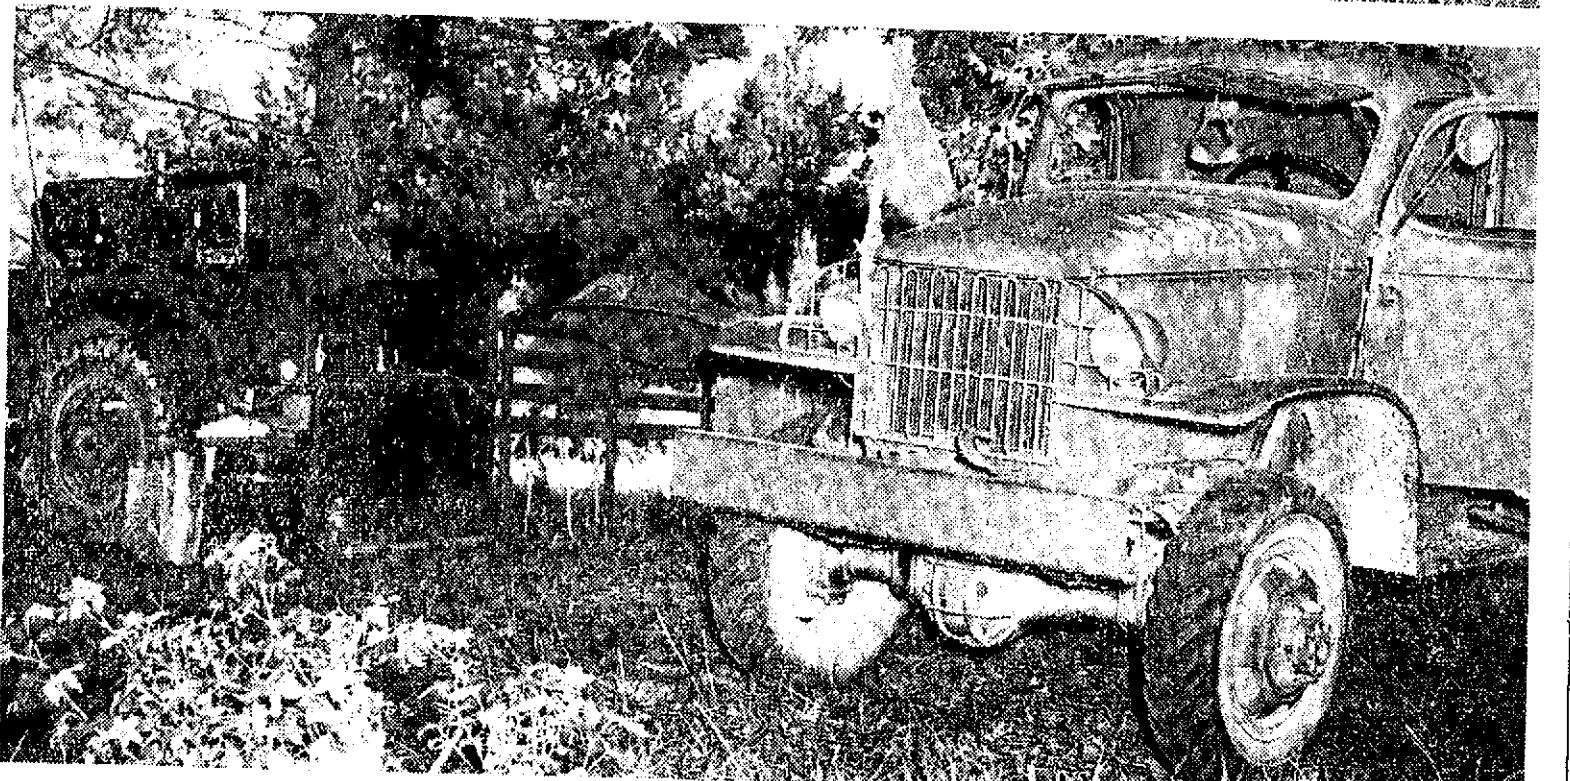

Deputy Sheriff Tom Middlebrooks said a first degree murder charge would be filed against Whitmore, who was lodged in the county jail.

Texas reserved the right to divide itself into as many as five states when it joined the Union.

Advance Clock One Hour Here 9 p. m. Sunday

Mayor Issues Proclamation to Co-operate With Proving Ground

Mayor Albert Graves issued a proclamation Friday noon putting Daylight Saving Time into effect in Hope at 9 o'clock Sunday night, August 24. Householders will move up their clocks one hour before going to bed Sunday night—that is, at 9 p. m. they will set the clock at 10 instead; and the civilian population will wake up Monday morning on Daylight Saving Time.

Mayor Graves' action was taken at the repeated request of the Southwestern Proving Ground commandant, and after several conferences with city councilmen and other local citizens.

The Proving Ground has operated from the beginning on Daylight Saving Time, both the Army people and the W. E. Callahan Construction company, contractors for the project. Lieut. Col. D. C. Cabell, commandant, told a Hope audience recently that the Proving Ground was compelled to operate on Daylight Saving Time in order to get in two full shifts during daylight.

Declaration of Daylight Saving Time, being in effect for the city will therefore put the civilian and military populations on the same time schedule.

Prior to taking this action Mayor Graves had received a petition circulated by Lyman Armstrong and Henry Haynes, and signed by the larger downtown stores and business houses urging that Colonel Cabell's request be granted and Daylight Saving Time be put in effect.

Dive Bombers Attack Troops

Dive Bombers Are Directed From Ground

WITH THE ARMY IN SOUTHWEST ARKANSAS —(AP)—The army's new Douglas dive bombers, which officers claim will outperform the German Stukas, was used in coordinated attacks with ground forces for the first time Friday.

Sweeping along a 16 mile front in three separate assaults starting at dawn the squad bodied planes plunged toward token enemy troops deployed over the heavily wooded terrain, pretending to drop bombs.

Although the squadron of bombers has simulated attacks on 70,000 men daily this week this was the first time the action was directed through radio communications with troops on the ground.

Service Act Becomes Law

Roosevelt Signs Order Extending Selective Service

HYDE PARK —(AP)—Implementing the selective service extension act President Roosevelt directed an executive order Friday that the term of service be extended 18 months for selectees, reservists, national guardsmen and enlisted personnel of the army.

The order more or less was a formality required under the extension act.

It provided that despite extension of service persons who have served 12 months may be released as the interests of defense permits.

Selectees may be transferred to reserves after a year of service. Reservists now on active duty would be let out after a year when they could be spared under such regulations as the secretary of war might prescribe and a like procedure would be followed for enlisted men for the regular army.

Production of Corn Shows Big Decrease

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The Agriculture Department, in a special mid-month report, forecast today production of corn in 14 major producing states at 1,889,172,000 bushels. The estimate compared with 1,997,776,000 bushels forecast August 1 and with last year's production of 1,840,992,000 bushels.

Russians Claim to Be Checking Leningrad Drive

Thousands of City's Civilians Volunteer for Peoples Army

By the Associated Press
Russian troops were reported to be checking the German siege columns storming toward Leningrad Friday as thousands of the city's civilian population volunteered for service in a peoples army.

Dispatches from Moscow said Leningrad, the old Czarist capital, was now a formidable military camp and that after four days of bitter fighting on the outer Leningrad defenses the Germans appeared to have made no new progress.

Many Join
Tass, the official Russian news agency, said the beleaguered city was echoing the sounds of marching men through its broad squares to join the peoples army, supporting the regular army at the front.

All through the night, a Soviet communiqué said Red army troops battled in rainstorms to check the main Nazi drive around Novgorod, 100 miles south of Leningrad and Kingisepp, 70 miles to the southwest.

From the north other German-Finnish troops were knifing down the Karelian isthmus only 65 miles away.

Nazi Casualty Claim
A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters said that enemy casualties "are unbelievably high" and reported that more than 1,250,000 Russians had been taken prisoners.

The Nazi columns also claimed the destruction or capture of 14,000 armored cars, 15,000 guns and 11,250 planes. "German and allied forces are standing deep in enemy territory in

Iran Answers British Note

England Asks Expulsion of 3,000 Germans

LONDON —(AP)—The Iranian government has replied to a British note requesting that German technicians and tourists be expelled from Iran, it was learned Friday night.

The reply was said to now be under consideration in London. It was handed to the British minister. The nature of the reply was not disclosed immediately.

Iran entered a British memorandum August 16 which was made in collaboration with Russia and well informed sources said Britain was considering "vigorous measures" to curb the growing Nazi influence in Iran.

Authorizing quarters refused to discuss "projected operations" and announced that no operation had begun.

Britain, impatient with Iran, was apparently reaching the limit and is believed to be ready to send troops marching into the country unless the Shah's government complies with British demands to banish a reported 3,000 Germans.

Ginger Rogers' New Picture Is a Delightful Romantic Comedy

Academy Award Winner to Play at Saenger

'Tom, Dick, and Harry' to Open at Local Theater on Sunday

Her first picture since winning the Academy Award for the best actress of 1940 with her brilliant portrayal of the title role in "Kitty Foyle," Ginger Rogers will be seen in "Tom, Dick and Harry" opens Sunday at the Saenger. George Murphy, Alan Marshall and Burgess Meredith three of Hollywood's foremost leading men, enact the roles indicated by the title.

Directed by Garson Kanin, who produced such hits as "Bachelor Mother" and "My Favorite Wife," the current film is described as a romantic comedy generously sprinkled with fantasy and hilarious situations.

Ginger is cast as a highly imaginative telephone operator, who believes it is just as easy for a working girl to marry a rich man as a man in her own financial class. She has gone steady with George Murphy, a live-wire salesman, for three years, and one night, under the spell of his enthusiasm, Ginger accepts his proposal for marriage.

But Ginger harbors a secret passion. He is the son of the town's richest man, and he sports a swanky car. Although she has never seen him, she has heard his suave voice over her switchboard telephone. And when she sees his expensive car drive up to the curb one night, she impulsively jumps in it, to the astonishment of the handsome driver. Thrilled beyond words, she accepts the young man's offer of a date for the evening.

It is not until she has kept the engagement that Ginger learns the good looking driver, Burgess Meredith, is merely a garage mechanic who was driving the wealthy young man's machine. But he proves to be charming, if broke, and she is intrigued by his happy-go-lucky philosophy of life. Before the evening is over they are engaged.

It is inevitable that Ginger finally meets her secret passion. Alan Marshall, the rich socialite, gives her the thrill of her life and they make the rounds of swanky cafes and take a spin in his plane. In no time at all they, too, become affianced.

Thus does the romantic young lady find herself officially engaged to three charming fellows, each of whom has his good and bad points. However, the showdown ultimately comes when each fiance demands a decision. How the impressionable young lady manages to extricate herself from her romantic dilemma is said to lead to the delightfully amusing surprise-twist climax.

Portraying other important supporting roles are Joe Cunningham and Jane Seymour as Ginger's bewildered parents; Lenore Lonergan, as her little sister; Vicki Lester, as a theatre usherette; and Phil Silvers as a comical ice cream vendor. Robert Sisk produced "Tom, Dick and Harry" for RKO Radio from an original screenplay by Paul Jarvic.

Proving Some Actors Look to the Past

HOLLYWOOD — Almost every actor has an urge to play some pet historical character, and he generally is quite certain he's the only person in Hollywood who can play it.

Such chances seldom occur, however. In the fantasy sequences of "The Remarkable Andrew," for instance, there are five famed early Americans, but only the character of George Washington is played by an actor who had been hoping some day to do it.

Montague Love has the role. Ten years ago he played Thomas Jefferson in George Arliss' "Alexander Hamilton," and all during production the makeup and cameramen had a hard time keeping Love from looking too much like Washington. To lessen the resemblance, they replaced his original white wig with a brown one and refilled several sequences.

In "The Remarkable Andrew," Love's former Jeffersonian role is played by Gilbert Emery. And George Watts is Benjamin Franklin, although that characterization is one that Buy Kibbee always wanted. Closest piece of type casting, probably, is Brandon Hurst as John Marshall. Even out of make-up, Hurst looks almost exactly like pictures of the great Chief Justice.

Donlevy As Jackson

Brian Donlevy long has wanted to impersonate Washington on the screen. About a year ago, just to remind the studio of the resemblance in case a Father-of-His-Country picture ever came along, Donlevy had himself made up and photographed in sample poses. But in the current movie, Donlevy is the crusty Andrew Jackson. It's a much larger role than Love's Washington, and Donlevy isn't disappointed.

Raymond Massey is the best Abraham

Lincoln in an out of Hollywood. Henry Fonda, who also did a movie portrayal, never had considered himself especially fitted for the role. More closely patterned in young-Lincolnian lines is Glenn Ford, and it's a part he especially wants to do—in spite of the previous box-office failures of all Lincoln pictures.

Don Ameche and Tyrone Power have impersonated some real but hazily sketched figures of history. One that Ameche really wants to do, though, is the dashing, dashing star reporter of the Spanish American War—Richard Harding Davis. Bette Davis always wanted to do Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots, but the closest she has come so far was Queen Elizabeth, Mary's executioner. The title role of "Mary of Scotland" went to Katharine Hepburn, who "along" about that time was telling RKO that she'd make a swell Delilah.

War Holds Back Cagney

Getting back to Andrew Jackson, that's a characterization that long was sought by Lionel Barrymore. He finally got it in "The Gorgeous Hussy," although they had to raise his forehead with a whole cap full of plastic makeup.

Jimmy Cagney expects to play John Paul Jones sometime, and has wanted to do it ever since a lean sea-son in New York when he earned a little money by posing in one of ones' actual uniforms.

The screen play has been completed for more than a year, but Warners won't make the picture until the war is ended. The studio figures it would not be very good taste just now to show anybody, even a Revolutionary naval hero, licking the tar out of the British.

MacArthur's Philippine Aide

Maj. Gen. Grunert Served in Outpost Many Years

By NEA Service

MANILA — When Lt. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Uncle Sam's top military man here in the Philippines, looks down at the powder keg on which he is sitting, he must breathe a sigh of relief that his second in command is Maj. Gen. George Grunert.

Gen. Grunert, for several years commanding general of the Philippine department, U. S. Army, is an up-from-the-ranker with hardly less actual experience in the Philippines than Gen. MacArthur himself.

It was as a young man of 22 that then-Second Lieutenant Grunert first came to these islands. That was in 1902—nearly 40 years ago. And he has spent a large number of the succeeding years here.

Youth Ambition

Young George Grunert was barely out of high school when he yielded to a consuming ambition—to be an army man. Born at White Haven, Pa., July 21, 1880, he was 17 when he joined the army—and went to war right off the bat.

The youthful soldier shortly found himself in Cuba in the Spanish-American War as a buck private. Eleven months later he was a sergeant. Then began a steady climb up the military ladder.

Shortly before he was 21, he received a commission as second lieutenant. It was only a year later that he received his first overseas training—here in the Philippines.

When he first arrived here, he became an officer with a troop of the newly-organized 11th cavalry, which he had assisted in organizing and training at Fort Myer, Va.

Ten years' service with the 11th cavalry was broken only by a short period of service with the 5th cavalry, to which Grunert was assigned in 1908 upon his promotion to first lieutenant. From here he went back to Cuba for the second time, as a member of the "army of Cuban pacification." Later he saw service at Fort Sheridan, Des Moines and Oglethorpe.

In 1916 he became a captain and was assigned to the 3rd cavalry at Fort Sam Houston and on the Mexican border.

By the time Pancho Villa had been driven far down into Mexico, the European war had both sides pretty much down on their knees and it looked as if Yankee troops were going abroad. That's where he went.

Came Home Bemedaled

The Pennsylvanian, now a major of infantry, went overseas in December, 1917. He was first assigned to the 90th Division and was sent to France. He later was brigaded with the British at Cambrai. He came home loaded with decorations—the French Legion of Honor, Chevalier, Purple Heart and Distinguished Service Medal.

In the peace years that followed he was deputy chief of staff to General Malin Craig, then director at the army war college for four years. After that, back here.

He left the Philippines in 1938 to succeed Gen. George C. Marshall, now Chief of Staff, as commandant at the Vancouver Barracks, Wash.

But when war seemed to be spreading to the East, Gen. Grunert was sent here to the spot he knows so well.

Senate Favors Bill to Hike Housing Fund

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The Senate passed and sent to the White House Thursday legislation authorizing an additional $200,000,000 outlay for defense housing. The measure would authorize an increase from $100,000,000 to $300,000,000 in the aggregate amount of mortgages that might be insured by the FHA for this purpose.

Victorious 'V' in Fashions

'V' Theme Plays Functional Part in Fashion Design

By HELEN FORRIST HALL, AP Fashion Writer

The V is victorious in fashion, anyway. Aside from stunts, such as hair-dos and painted motifs on arms and legs, the V theme is playing a functional part in fashion design.

Stripes and plaids, well liked this season, spell a bold V in bias-cut dresses and coats. Many new hats, both American and British, blatantly depict the theme as a morale booster, while others take advantage of the pleasing motif for subtle, wearable line or trim. Gloves, purses and even shoes follow suit.

In the novelty lines, countless gadgets such as vanities, eye glasses, scarfs, and clips, pins and jewels, bear testimony to the popular acceptance of the V theme. Innumerable buttons parading the symbol in outline or super-imposed upon a disc are reported selling well.

People seem, unconsciously or not, to be making V formations—such as Gertrude Lawrence's arrangement of jeweled pins on the bosom of her dress.

Stylists report the V theme has been accepted to a point where, in their belief, it will continue in little unexpected ways for a reasonably long time.

Home Clubs Aid in Food Care

List of Fall Vegetables Announced by Agent

According to Miss Mary Claude Fletcher, home demonstration agent, food for defense is continued to be stressed. Home demonstration club members are cooperating and sponsoring canning, preserving and drying every available type of food.

The summer garden will soon be exhausted and it is time now to be thinking of the important fall garden. People in the Proving Ground area that have moved to new locations that have an available space should plan to have a fall garden to help the canned foods and save on actual cash expenses for their families.

Enrl J. Allen, Extension horticulturist, sends a special list of vegetables that can be grown in Hempstead county this fall. Mr. Allen places special emphasis on root crops that can be stored or left in the ground through the early winter months. The following chart can be followed in planting the fall garden:

Bush beans, Stringless greenpod (canning), latest planting date, September 10.

Time beans, Henderson's Bush (storage), latest planting date August 20. Beans, Detroit Dark Red (canning and storage) latest planting date, September 10.

Cabbage, Jersey Wakefield (storage and kraut) latest planting date, September 15. (Planting). (Seed should be sown not later than August 15.)

Carrots, Chantenay (storage and canning) latest planting date, September 1.

Swiss Chard, Lucullus (canning-table use) latest planting date, September 10.

Chinese Cabbage, Chihili (storage-table use), latest planting date September 1.

Kohlrabi, White Vienna (storage-table use), latest planting date, September 15.

Spinach, Bloomsdale (canning-table) latest planting date, September 20.

Turnips, Purple Top Milan (storage) latest planting date, October 1.

Mustard, Giant Curled (canning-table) latest planting date, September 15.

Radishes, Scarlet Globe (table use), latest planting date, October 1.

Spinach, Bloomsdale (canning-table) latest planting date, September 20.

Turnips, Purple Top Milan (storage) latest planting date, October 1.

The latest dates of planting have been given, but for succession crops any of these vegetables could be planted immediately.

Asserts Byrd's Figures Wrong

Roosevelt Says Defense Projects on Schedule

HYDE PARK —(AP)—Sharply asserting figures added by Senator Bird (D-Va.) President Roosevelt Friday asserted that "while American defense production never had been completely satisfactory, on the average it was up to estimates."

Roosevelt told a press conference, and he volunteered the information, that he had heard and read a statement by Sen. Bird earlier in the week in Washington which said defense production was lagging seriously.

The president said he had asked the War Department for check and that it showed that Bird was wrong in all categories but planes.

Somebody, he said, told the Senator down the river on the figures. The war department, the president said, told him it was most unfortunate that the senator's idea was inaccurate and that somebody had misled him.

The land and water area of the Netherlands East Indies is about equal to the land area of continental United States.

Another Ship Burns in N. Y.

Second Waterfront Fire of Week Destroys Finn Ship

NEW YORK —(AP)—A fire of mysterious origin aboard the war stranded Finnish ship, Aurora, raged for five hours Friday, the second ship fire here within five days.

The first officer was suffocated as he slept on the 4,956 ton vessel at a Hudson river anchorage. Other members of the crew of 18, including two waitresses, were rescued by police and private boats.

At the same time police announced six more deaths resulting from the $1,500,000 Brooklyn waterfront blaze of last Monday in which the American freighter Panuco, her pier and several barges were destroyed or badly damaged bringing the death toll to 25 and left 8 missing.

The Aurora, listing badly from water in her hole, was ordered beached on the New Jersey shore near Inglewood Cliffs.

FBI and local police authorities said they had uncovered no evidence of sabotage in an investigation.

Ginger Rogers Starred in Saenger Picture on Sunday

You can almost see the green in their eyes as Janie's (Ginger Rogers) look at each other with that "wish you were far away" look. A delightful and provoking tale of a girl who loves three men and wants them all, "Tom, Dick and Harry" is Miss Rogers' first picture since "Kitty Foyle". The three candidates are, left to right: Harry, played by Burgess Meredith; Tom, played by George Murphy; and Dick, played by Alan Marshal.

No Flies Found on U. S. Pursuit Planes

WASHINGTON — There has been so much wing flapping of loose ton for U. S. combat planes were in service abroad that an amateur expedition to determine where all this criticism started and how justified it is makes an interesting pastime for any reader chair strategist of the air. So here goes:

Most of the knocking has been against the pursuit ships and fighters. For American bombers there can't be enough praise. The British would be hopelessly outclassed today if it were not for these bombers and that goes for the Lockheed Hudsons, which were not designed as military aircraft, but have been very effective as light bombers.

Criticism of the combat planes has been aimed particularly at the P-40. If that is only a meaningless designation to you, it might be mentioned that a "P" plane is a pursuit plane, and the number "40" merely indicates that it is the fortieth design which the army has put into production. Circumstances which have given this plane its bad name trace back to a peculiar chain of events.

Before the loose-lead bill was passed, it was against the law to sell to foreign governments models of planes which were in service in the U. S. armed forces. This meant that when the French and British came to order planes, they had to get models the Army had not adopted. Also, they had to get planes which U. S. manufacturers were in a position to deliver. The British took Lockheed Hudsons and made them into light bombers. The French picked on the P-40, an experimental model of 1939 intended to be an improvement of the P-36, the standard U. S. Army equipment in the old-fashioned days of 1936.

The French ordered a lot of these original P-40's and they put in French gadgets—French radio, French instruments. The throttle was on the wrong side. Norway and Sweden ordered some too. Then France and Norway got knocked out of the picture, and Sweden was blockaded. Some of the planes rusting in Martinique are supposedly P-40's. Delivery of others couldn't be made.

The British, anxious to get anything that would fly, took delivery of all the P-40's they could lay hands on. When they got them, however, they woke up to the fact that equipment was all wrong for British pilots. The radio operated only on French frequencies. The throttle shoved forward to increase speed instead of backward.

Now those fine points may not seem important to a layman but to a pilot whose every action must be a reflex, they are decidedly confusing. The British weren't very smart about this, either, if they'll pardon a dirty dig. Instead of training pilots to fly them and mechanics to re-equip them, they let some of the planes lie in crates. From that, the ships began to get a bad name.

Along about that time, British production of its own fighters began to accelerate. They didn't need the P-40's, and preferring to use their own production in Britain, which was natural, they shipped the rest of their P-40's to the Mediterranean. This was the second point interpreted as an admission that the P-40 was no good.

Stalled and Looped
The poor old P-40 was really the first low wing, all metal, closed cockpit fighter. It had some faults, as any first model is apt to have. It manifested a little wing tip stall, and it would go into ground loops. Its air scoop flared a little, it was not heavily armored by today's standards, but remember, all this was back in the practically prehistoric times of 1939, when its 360 miles an hour and multiple machine gun armament were adequate.

Now the army has a habit of putting improvements on planes, and whenever an improved model is brought out, they stick a letter of the alphabet after its model number. P-40-A's began to appear, and P-40-B's and C's and D's. Today there are P-40-E's flying around, and this month the army is to announce a new Cur-

1941 Cotton Loans Can Be Made Direct

Producer's Note, Agreement Executed Only By AAA Clerks

Loans on 1941 cotton will be made directly by the Commodity Credit Corporation through agencies approved by the corporation, according to Oliver L. Adams, county agent, in discussing the 1941 cotton loan program. The producer's note and loan agreement may be executed only by clerks designated by the county Triple-A committee, he said.

Such clerks, the county agent said, shall be limited, except in special circumstances, to persons engaged in or employed by warehouses approved for storing loan cotton, banks and production credit associations acting as lending agencies. If adequate service cannot be obtained otherwise, the county committee may, with approval of the state Triple-A office, designate one or more of its employees to act as such clerks.

Lists of clerks designated to execute the loan forms and the names of the agencies they represent must be sent to the state office. Fees may be charged by the clerks executing the forms but not to exceed the following schedule. One to two bales, 15 cents; 3 to 4 bales, 20 cents; 6 to 7 bales, 25 cents; 7 to 8 bales, 30 cents; 9 to 10 bales, 35 cents; 11 to 20 bales, 2 cents per bale for each bale over 10; 21 bales and over, 1 cent for each bale over 20.

The average loan rate this year will be 14.02 cents a pound on 7-8 inch middling cotton gross weight, based on a parity price of 14.40 cents for August 1. Last year the rate was 8.90 cents a pound. Loan rate differentials will be made for grade, staple and location, the location differential being based on freight rates to ports or to the concentrated mill areas.

Cotton producer's notes will bear interest at the rate of 3 per cent per annum and will be callable on demand and will mature July 31, 1942. Loans will be available until May 1, 1942 and will be made only on cotton represented by warehouse receipts issued by warehouses approved by the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Horace D. Curtis Is Private 1st Class

In orders just issued by Lt. Col. Raymond R. Brown, Commanding Officer, of Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, Pvt. Horace D. Curtis, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Curtis, McCaskill, Ark., was appointed Pvt. First Class upon recommendation of his Squadron Commander. Military authorities at Jefferson Barracks stated that Curtis' promotion was based upon his soldierly qualities and attention to duty.

About Chicago
The city of Chicago rests on a rocky foundation, which was built by coral millions of years ago when the area was a tropical sea.

its P-40-F, which is so much of an improvement on the original old P-40 that the planes shouldn't be in the same class. And it might be mentioned here that in the way of combat planes the army also has in production models up to Republic P-47's, which the British don't have, and represent seven basic improvements in design after the P-40. Also, Lockheed P-38's and the Bell Airacobra P-39, both of which can do better than 400 miles an hour.

The real payoff on the P-40's, however, is that some of the P-40-A's and P-40-B's saw action in Syria where they fought off the Germans.

Next time anybody tell you the U. S. plane factories can't make good pursuit ships, kick him in the britches for a fifth columnist.

Ocen Bossom Yields 'Rainbow' Mud

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
NEW YORK — Some new handwriting on the ocean bottom, in the form of green and pink pigments, is reported in the proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences.

The colors are not a prophecy but a record of things that happened in some remote past. The report is by Denis L. Fox and Lloyd J. Anderson of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, La. Jolla, Calif.

These men studied the cores of mud brought up from the bottoms by a cylinder which, after being lowered thousands of feet, drives an inverted, open end steel can into the bottom by exploding a charge of powder. It's like shooting a big gun.

They found green pigments nearly 20 feet below the top of the mud. The greens included the stuff of which chlorophyll is formed. None was chlorophyll, but all were simpler chemicals, out of which the plant color could be made.

The greens were found regardless of bottom depth. Some of the muds were very ancient.

The pinks were carotenoides, the pigments which animals convert into vitamin A. In one deep layer of Gulf of Mexico bottom, these pigments were estimated to be 6,000 to 7,000 years old.

The Vichy Fleet Rides the Seas

The Vichy navy remains a potent threat to the Allies, despite its crippling by British and Free French attacks, as Premier Petain and Admiral Darlan commit France to new collaboration with the Nazis. These exclusive pictures show one of the fleet's modern battleships (note big guns), as seen from fire-control tower of another vessel; Admiral Darlan, new Vichy war chief, scanning the sea from the bridge of a warship; and a line of swift destroyers cruising off the west coast of France.

Pictorial Pattern of Roosevelt-Churchill Eight-Point Policy

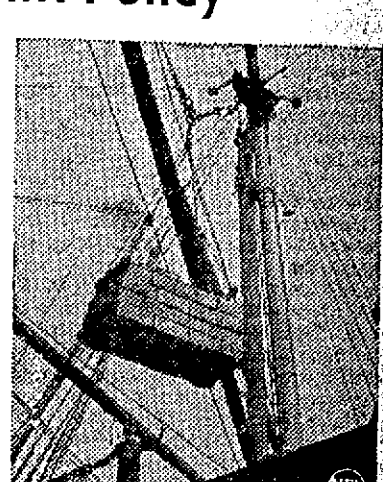

1 VICTORY: The United States and Great Britain seek no aggrandizement, territorial or other.

2 BOUNDARIES: They desire to see no territorial changes that do not accord with wishes of the people concerned.

3 GOVERNMENT: They wish to see sovereign rights and self government restored to those forcibly deprived of them.

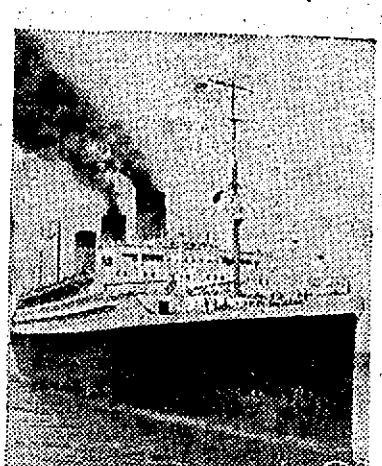

4 TRADE: They will endeavor to further the access, on equal terms, to the trade and raw materials of the world.

5 LABOR: They desire improved labor standards, economic advancement and social security in all nations.

6 FREEDOM FROM FEAR: They hope for a peace to afford dwelling in safety, freedom from fear and want.

7 FREEDOM OF THE SEAS: Such a peace should enable all men to traverse the high seas without hindrance.

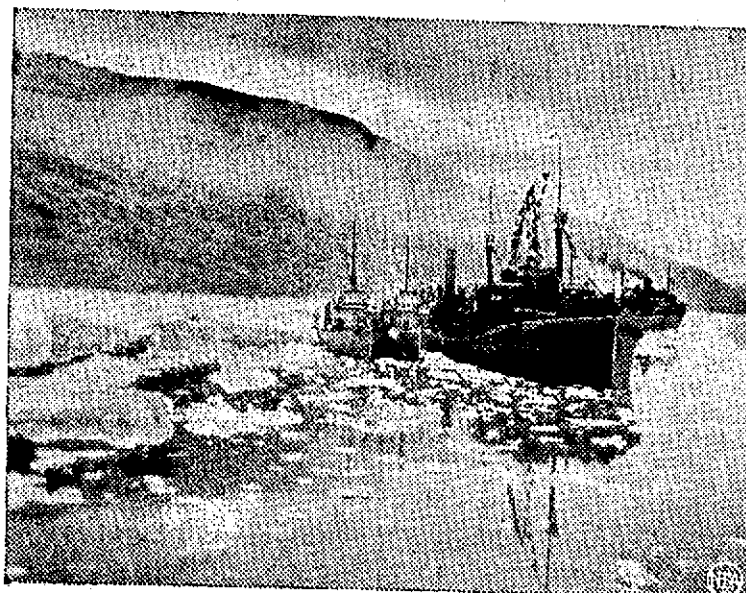

8 DISARMAMENT: They believe that all nations must abandon the use of force, that disarmament is essential.

Know America's Planes

CURTISS SO3C-1

To provide "eyes" for U. S. naval gunners, the American aircraft industry has produced several types of scouting-observation planes. Here is one of them—the SO3C-1 (SO for scout observation, 3C for third scouting type to be built by Curtiss, 1 for the model number). Points of identification: the mid-wing construction, large tail structure, two-blade propeller, exhaust jets on the underside of the fuselage, and the spatted landing gear, which can be replaced by a float, converting the ship into a seaplane.
